Against the world and ain we fight,

Who on the cross, was a lain.

ORORUS,

We are marching along
With banner and song,
With banner and song,
We hasd not the world'e opinion,
To God we are true.
His will we will do,
And Jesus shall have the Dominion.

But new in sighteen ninety
With greeter zeal we'll light
Against the devil and sin we'll fight and We'll win,
In our Saviour's might.

From sea to sea we'll compar,
And whis from shore to shore,
For in the strength of Ged we'll here.
The victory evermore.
Lost souls we'll bring to Jocus.
Our great Almighty King.
He'll sear them from sin and make their,
hearts clean.
And then like us they will sing.

Long I've sighed to know this fulness, Of Thy love and power divine; Ent I'm conscious of my weakness, Can this blessing now be mine?

Do I hear a voice now speaking,
In such accents soft end low;
"Come, it is for thee I'm seeking,
I will wash thes white as snow."

Lord, I come in all my weakness, Nothing good heve I to bring; I just cast myself upon thee, Cleanse me now from inbred sin.
